Discourses Humorously
On Program "Sabotage"

ANDALUSIA, Aug. 18.—The Bensalem Rotary Club held its weekly meeting Tuesday evening in King Hall, president Raymond Anderson presiding.

The group welcomed William Scheilenberger, superintendent of Bensalem schools, as a new member. Raymond Saunders, headmaster of Pen Ryn School, was called upon to give members a review of an article appearing in the last month's Rotarian magazine. Mr. Saunders gave a humorous discourse on "How to Sabotage a Program." He related how members, while listening to a speaker, may fall asleep, whisper, shuffle chairs, drop badges and then be very sparing with applause. Mr. Saunders filled his talk with appropriate anecdotes that kept everyone laughing. None was guilty of the listed means of sabotage during his talk, it is reported.

President Anderson called upon each of his club committee chairmen for reports on the aims and plans of each committee for the coming Rotary year. District Governor Joseph Neidig will visit Bensalem club on Sept. 19th, and Mr. Anderson asks that all committees be on their toes, doing a good job.

J. Maurice Tomlinson spoke to members about the free buses the club is sponsoring to the State Police Rodeo on Friday, August 25th, at Allentown. Free tickets for the buses and rodeo may be obtained by children at any of the churches in Bensalem township. Buses will pick up the children at their churches at 11 a. m., Aug. 25th.

With 50 members and guests in attendance, Chalfont Grange held its picnic in the rear of the Grange hall, at Chalfont, Monday evening.

The supper, which was in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Swartz, was followed by a series of games and contests, in charge of Mrs. Charles Try, Mrs. Clarence Myers and Carl Billman. Winners of the various events were presented awards.

The Grange, it is expected, will be largely represented at the meeting of Upper Bucks Pomona Grange No. 59, on August 26. The business session will be held at the headquarters of Richland Grange, near Quakertown, and the afternoon session will be in the form of a picnic at Quakertown Memorial Park.

Announcement has been made that the next meeting of the Grange here, will be held on Aug. 28.

Chester L. Maxwell, Jr., New Hope, has just completed the painting of a new canvas which he has titled "Backstage at the Music Circus." It pictures a backstage scene. A department store in Philadelphia has incorporated the painting in a window display.

Two Chalfont men were involved in a highway accident over the week-end.

One of the Chalfont men, Charles Pohl, 78, was hurled into a windshield and out on the highway in an accident at Line Street and Cowpath road, Saturday night. He was taken to Elm Terrace Hospital.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

General MacArthur, reporting to the United Nations Security Council, urged all member nations to send ground forces "speedily" to assure victory in Korea. The United Nations should help the Republic of Korea to rule over a united land once peace has been restored and democratic elections held, the United States declared in the Council.

No progress was made toward breaking the Council's deadlock over Korea.

John Foster Dulles accepted appointment to this country's General Assembly delegation and eliminated himself as a candidate for United States Senator from New York.

A National Psychological Strategy Board was named in Washington to coordinate the nation's anti-Communist propaganda and carry it vigorously and speedily to the world.

Senator Wherry's charge that Secretary Acheson, alone, was responsible for "the blood of our boys in Korea" was branded by President Truman "a contemptible statement and beneath comment."

A universal military training bill was introduced by Senator Tydings; action by this Congress was forecast. A tax bill to raise $5,000,000 by eliminating cuts in old excess taxes, adding some new ones, raising income taxes and closing "loopholes" was approved by a Senate committee. The President asked Congress to cut its highway program to save vital defense materials and money.

A Senate committee favorably reported the McCarran anti-Communist bill although the Administration is to introduce a milder anti-subversion bill.

A former Soviet vice-consul and a Brooklyn couple were indicted here for conspiracy to commit espionage.

The Senate passed and sent to the President the compromise Social Security Bill adding 10,000,000 to its coverage and increasing benefits to millions of others.

International cartels continue to hamper Europe's recovery, the E. C. A. reported.

Chancellor Adenauer urged a West German defense force equal to "police" in the Soviet zone and at least ten United States divisions with tanks in Europe. Britain has already let contracts in her rearmament program.

River Bridge To Reopen
At Yardley Tonight

YARDLEY, Aug. 18.—Traffic will again be able to use the Delaware river bridge between Yardley and Wilburtha as the span is re-opened at 7 this evening, the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission announced.

The bridge has been closed since July 10 while a new steel-grating type floor was installed. Thousands of motorists traveling to and from work were re-routed to the lower bridges while the installation was being made.

Good weather enabled the paint to dry quickly after the painters finished work yesterday. The new bridge floor was completed on schedule at an approximate cost of $53,000.

Commission engineers report that the new floor will be smoother, less noisy and will tend to strengthen the entire structure.

WARNS CATASTROPHE
IS FACED IN EUROPE

Total Destruction Foreseen
Unless Christianity Is

CLUB HEARS WHITE

Predicting that western Europe is headed for a catastrophic event and total destruction unless Christianity and its ideals are adopted and practiced, C. Burnley White, Bensalem Rotarian who recently returned from a visit to England, told Bristol Rotarians at the Elks' Home yesterday afternoon that "Christianity is the only force which can save the world from a catastrophic event . . . we must put the Kingdom of God first and then all other things will fall in their proper places."

"Where there is no vision the people perish, and there is no vision in western Europe today," White said. "The only vision prevalent today in Europe is the question as to when the next World War will become a reality."

Making observations on the economy of the British empire as he saw it, White said the present Labor government is stifling industry, and that when the end of American aid is at hand then the entire economy will collapse. The government had adopted a leveling off process whereby risk capital is non-existent . . . in some instances the tax rate, above certain levels, is 125 percent, he informed.

Prior to White's talk, president Ray Sobatzky introduced Ray Hoxworth, Bucks County Scout Executive, who in turn introduced Captain E. W. Rounds, USN (retired) chairman of the Bucks County Boy Scouts current campaign for funds for capital improvements to the Bucks County Boy Scout Camp.

Capt. Brown said the goal has been set at $60,000 for such much needed improvements as additional buildings, more ground, water facilities, etc.

Guests were present for the meeting from Elkhon, Md.; Beverly, New Brunswick, N. J.; Edgington and Bensalem.

TENSE INTERNATIONAL SITUATION HASN'T DIMMED EUROPEANS' HOSPITALITY, WRITE
MR. AND MRS. B. SNIPES FROM GERMANY

NEWTOWN, Aug. 18.—The tense international situation apparently has not dimmed the hospitality of the Europeans, according to a report from Mr. and Mrs. Bradshaw Snipes, assistant leaders of the George School work camp project in Germany.

Two Morrisville residents are working with a group of students from George School and Jacobi Gymnasium, Dusseldorf, Germany, an affiliated school, in installing a water system for a small refugee village founded since the war by a Protestant minister.

In a letter received several weeks ago by Samuel Snipes, of Morrisville, his brother and sister-in-law (the latter, Inge, born in Germany) say that stores in some areas seem well stocked, although money is not as plentiful as it is here.

"At last I'm getting a chance to let you know of our happenings since we landed in Rotterdam," Mr. Snipes writes.

The letter follows: "After eleven long days during which time even the freight ships passed our old wash tub, we landed early one morning in Rotterdam; however the service and food on the ship were good. After breakfast a big brass band arrived and began playing national anthems and popular tunes."

"An hour later Prince Bernhard of Holland, the husband of the Queen and No. 2 handsaker of the land, arrived and gave us a very good welcome in good English which he spoke off the cuff. He warned the 1350 students on the ship to settle down in various lands and learn about the countries and become acquainted with many people from all walks of life, and not to become the typical American tourist."

"Two hours later step by step, we finally made our way off the ship and immediately had a bright zinnia pinned on our lapels by Boy Scouts; it was a nice gesture, but some of us also wondered if it wasn't a good way to identify every tourist so that the taxi drivers, hotel keepers and store salesmen would know how to charge them."

"Upon leaving the warehouse we were surprised to see Jonny Ornstein, a classmate at Guildford, who studied in the States during the war. Now she is back in her native Holland. She saved us hours as she helped us to get to the station and then to the Hague, where we spent the first night on land. Most of the students were so tired that they went to bed right after supper, for the night before they had stayed up all night to watch the ship pull in the channel and dock."

"The stores seemed well supplied."

OVER 300 SENIORS

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 18.—Six students from Bristol, Pa., and one from Croydon, Pa., graduated this morning with over 300 seniors who received degrees or diplomas at Rider College's 85th commencement exercises, here, today.

The list includes: Joseph Paolletti, 1618 Trenton avenue; Lawrence P. Dougherty, 518 Linden street; Anna E. Lutz, 429 Cedar street; Lydia Ruth Sheldon, Edgely avenue; Gaetana Agnes Sina-cori, 717 Pond street; Ruth Ann Terneson, 534 Linden street, all of Bristol; Lorraine Elsa Lovett, Croydon.

Honorary degrees were also conferred upon Miss Grace A. Dunn, distinguished educator in the Trenton public school system; Chester A. Robbins, Deputy Commissioner of Education for the State of New Jersey; and Louis Kroner, president of the Sanitary Milk Company, Easton, Pa., and a Rider alumnus.

6 GRADES TO REMAIN

Merger Had Long Been Discussed, Says President
Roberts

TULLYTOWN, Aug. 18.—About 19 Tullytown school children will be the first to be affected by the recent merger of the borough and Bristol township school boards, announced Norman Roberts, first president of the newly-organized Delhaas school district.

These children will include those who have completed the sixth grade at Tullytown together with those who would have returned to the Pennsbury schools for their eighth grade. Both seventh and eighth graders from Tullytown will begin at the township school next month, Mr. Roberts said.

He added that there is a possibility that by the time the seventh graders reach their 11th year, a new joint high school might be ready to begin operations.

Special Meeting Held
By E. Bristol Twp. PTA

EDGELEY, Aug. 18.—The East Bristol Township Parent-Teacher Association held a special meeting last evening in the old Edgely school building. The meeting took place in the two downstairs rooms which the teachers and parents recently painted. The group decided to purchase draperies for the windows, and to reimburse the teachers for the cost of the paint.

Final accounting was given on the playground equipment by Oscar Booz, committeeman. Two pieces of equipment have been installed and two more will be in the near future.

Due to the fact there will be no kindergarten in the township this year (the room being used for other purposes), literature was distributed for a nearby school.

OLDEST "GIRL SCOUT"
DIES AT CROYDON

Mrs. Joseph Ruck Believed To Be Oldest Scout In United States

FUNERAL ON TUESDAY

CROYDON, Aug. 18.—The one who is believed to have been the oldest "Girl Scout" in the United States died here yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Mary T. Ruck, honored by Troop 7, Croydon Girl Scouts, in March, 1948, by being made an official member of the troop, had 2½ years while in her eighties to enjoy the affiliation which she had missed during her girlhood.

Death of Mrs. Ruck, "89 years young," occurred at her home, 1314 State road, at 1:45 yesterday afternoon. She had been ill for eight weeks. A native of Philadelphia, she came to Croydon 34 years ago. She was the widow of Joseph Ruck.

When Croydon troop of Girl Scouts was organized 38 years ago Mrs. Ruck thought she was too old to become one of the group, but she was a Scout at heart. She was 51 at the time. During the intervening years she would stand on her porch and watch the girls pass in parade formation, or on their way to regular meetings. Frequently she exclaimed "Oh, I wish I could have been a Girl Scout!" Hearing of her innermost wish, the girls decided to try to do something about their ardent supporter. National Girl Scout headquarters was contacted, and way was "cleared" for acceptance of the one who was then 87 years old. So, on March 8, 1948, five Scouts, including three first class ones, together with their leader, Mrs. Edward Potterton, visited Mrs. Ruck, and the oath was administered to her. Membership card and pin were presented with

OF GRAVES TO FALLS

252 Are Transferred From
Pennsbury to Fallington
Friends Ground

FALLSINGTON, Aug. 18.—Work of removing the approximately 252 bodies from the Pennsbury Friends Meeting House grounds on Borden-town road to Fallington Friends burial ground, here, has been completed. The new grounds are now being graded and seeded, and the former site is being leveled.

Headstones which marked the graves in the old cemetery have been placed in proper position over the respective graves, the entire task requiring about two months. Work of disinterment and re-burial had been started in mid-June.

The removals are due to the fact that ground at Pennsbury Friends Meeting House has been purchased by the United States Steel Corporation for a giant new steel mill. The removal of the bodies is the first activity on the site outside surveying and sounding for foundations. It is expected that the steel concern will begin real activity in connection with building next March.

The majority of the graves are old ones, some dating back to 1841. "There were no recent burials," states a spokesman for Arthur S. Hough, Ewing, N. J., contractor, who was in charge of the removals.

The task was a detailed one, each body being removed separately to a new and separate grave here. Then, in instances where a headstone marked the old grave, the stone was placed at the new grave.

The contractor's spokesman informs that the new site is being graded and seeded to grass, but that any other plantings will be up to the relatives of the deceased.

SUGGESTS PLAN TO OBTAIN BAN ON

Wayne Warner Gives Idea Which Clicks At Meeting

TO STUDY THE IDEA

Calls for One-Way Traffic
From Walnut To Mill Street

A subject which aroused considerable controversy, caused the police committee of borough council many long hours of study and which brought traffic engineers here to make a survey, has been solved in a practical way, it appears, by just a young Bristol man.

The placing of a ban on "left-turns" into Mill street will not be necessary, says Wayne Warner, son of former councilman and Mrs. William Warner.

Warner, last evening, attended a meeting of the Mill Street Business Men's Association and others affected by the proposed edict. The meeting was held in the Bristol Jewish Center Building. There were councilmen, taxi drivers, delivery and pick-up, truck drivers and divers residents of the area, who more or less would be affected by the "no left-turn" regulation.

Councilmen and business men, truck drivers and taxi operators discussed the action of council, both pro and con, for two hours. A resolution was adopted, when finally Warner, standing in the rear of the room, raised his hand. He was acknowledged by Charles Richman, president of the Mill street association and presiding officer.

Warner, a little timidly at first, addressing the chair offered this suggestion:

All traffic on Pond street, from Walnut to Mulberry street, and thence over old Route 13, from Mulberry street to Mill street to be one-way—in a westerly direction. This will permit two lanes of traffic on this portion of the highway. Those desiring to turn left into Mill street may do so, while the through traffic or those desiring to turn right onto Otter street may do so.

All traffic on old Route 13, south of Mill street and in an easterly direction will be funneled through Mill street.

A blackboard was hastily procured and Councilman James Eagan drew out the plan so that it was visible to all.

Warner was requested to join a committee consisting of Abe Popkin, Edward Lynn, and John A. Ward which Tuesday night will sit down with the police committee to endeavor to solve the problem. Warner's idea clicked and it will be given serious consideration Tuesday evening.

The police committee of council of which S. Joseph Alta is chairman.

3 Quarterly Meetings of Friends Plan 2 Sessions

An estimated 200 Friends of both branches of the society will convene at Crosswicks, N. J., meeting house tomorrow for a joint session of worship and business. Three separate quarterly meetings will take part in the special meeting.

The proposal for the combined meeting was made by Burlington Quarterly Meeting, which includes local meetings in Crosswicks Mansfield, Mount Holly, Rancocas, Trenton, and Princeton, N. J. The Burlington and Bucks Quarter, the second of the three, includes the meetings in Burlington, Fallsington, Newtown, Langhorne, Southampton and Bethlehem. Bucks Quarter, the third group, has member meetings in the previously mentioned Pennsylvania towns and also in Bristol, Dolington, Wrightstown, Buckingham, and Solebury.

The extensive overlapping and in many respects duplication of the three groups of meetings will be one of the principal matters discussed at Saturday's session. The morning program will open at 10, and the afternoon business session at 1:30, according to Edward M. Hendrickson, of Crosswicks, presiding clerk of the afternoon session. There will be four panel discussions of Quakers' social and economic responsibilities, and the problems of uniting the quarterly meetings.

Among the officials arranging for this three-way quarterly meeting are Louis C. Leedom, of Yard

ONE ARMY FOR EUROPE

Western Europeans are generally only too familiar with most of the facts and conclusions that Winston Churchill wove into the address he made before the consultative assembly of the Council of Europe, in session at Strasbourg. They know their own weakness and Russia's strength; they know that if the United States did not have the atomic bomb they might be under Soviet domination today.

They know they have only a limited time to rebuild their armed strength so that they can defend their freedom. Their situation is understood well enough by the men who are the leaders of western Europe.

But they may understand certain other things too well. There are difficulties standing in the way of what they must do if western Europe is to survive. These they see very plainly. They see less plainly how to overcome them.

That is the great value of the Churchill speech. It was made by a man who does not at the moment carry the responsibilities of government on his shoulders and it is true that others in places of power cannot speak with the same freedom. Still, if western Europe is to solve its problem, the solution will have to be bold and sweeping. Nothing less will do.

The unified European Army proposed by Churchill embodies a concept going far beyond anything that has been proposed by any European or American in a position of power. To create it would not be easy. Yet it could bring together men of all the free nations, and Germans with them, in a single force strong enough to preserve liberty in Europe.

WINNING A RUIN

Most war news falls naturally into one of two categories—once the mind has accepted the terrible cost of battle in terms of human life and physical destruction. It is good when our fighting men are winning; bad when the enemy is gaining successes. But some victories leave one with a feeling of grim elation mixed with sadness approaching despair.

Since the war began in Korea, American airmen have been winning such a great, heart-rending victory. A dispatch by Walter Sullivan in a recent issue of the New York Times reported:

"After less than six weeks of war, Korea's transport system and industry largely is in ruins. While the northern half has been smitten by Superfortresses, the cities and towns in the southern half have been leveled in direct fighting and in scorched earth tactics. Hardly any towns in the southern half of the country have escaped raids. . . . Two of North Korea's most important industrial areas likewise have been laid in ruins."

The ravages of war have already done great damage to Korean industry and transport rebuilt after World War II with American money. Whenever the fighting ceases, the victor will win a ruin.

with everything and at about the same prices as in the states. The only hitch for the Hollanders is that their wage scale is not so high as in America. Therefore they can't buy so many things besides the necessities of life. Most people rode bicycles, many of them had small motors on them. Organ grinders who pushed organ boxes about as large as haywagons cranked out their music and then charged you half a block to collect a charge.

"Rotterdam is the largest port of Europe and gradually being rebuilt, having been almost totally destroyed by the Nazi air force the first day they invaded the Lowlands. There was quite a bit of enmity among the Dutch toward the Germans; at the same time however the Dutch seemed to want to join a United States of Europe and wanted Germany to join with them.

The next morning we were off early in the morning for Germany. Many people on the train fell in to talking with us, for many of the Dutch know English. At the border two teachers from Jacobi Gymnasium, our affiliated school, and a student representative met us, and we had much to talk about the rest of the way. At Dusseldorf, Germany, it seemed like the 450 students of Jacobi Gymnasium were there to welcome us and hand us all big bouquets of flowers. Then all separated to go with their individual hosts for the week-end.

"I was invited to the Hentschel's home. Their son was the first exchange student to come to George

School in America last year. Mr. Hentschel is the manager of a large heavy machine industry in Dusseldorf; and their family lives in an entirely different world from that of the great mass of Germans, or Americans too, for that matter.

"At least you see we had plenty of hospitality. The first night we were in Dusseldorf they had an official welcoming for us in their substitute school building. The speeches were all in English. The best speech was one which was a takeoff on some of our characteristics; we like sour grapefruit juice but put sugar in it to make it sweet; we like liquor which is so strong it burns, yet we put ice in it; when drinking, we say 'Here's to you,' and drink it ourselves! weekend the hosts showed us around town. Among other things we went through the old Benrath castle near Dusseldorf. Dusseldorf seems to be a little gay and more rebuilt than some of the other cities.

"Dorlar is about a 5 hours' train ride from Dusseldorf going east toward Kassel; and we crossed over the Ruhr where it was only a few yards wide. Here the hills are high and rounded with patches of timber on the tops of them. All manner of rectangular patches of grain, potatoes, and pastureland decorate the hill sides—such beautiful country one seldom sees.

"We live in an old cement block building along side a seldom-used railroad track. We haul our food about 100 yards and our water likewise from Martinsdorf a settlement of about five buildings for German refugees. There are two main groups of them here; the very old folks and small children mostly under ten years of age. They are here mostly on the charity of an evangelical pastor who has built this hostel for refugees almost with his own hands.

"Our job is primarily building or digging ditches for a water system and also building a reservoir. The four girls from our affiliated school in Berlin and the five George School girls work right along with the five boys from Dusseldorf and the four boys from the U. S. in these jobs. Also some of our girls work in the big community kitchen every day and others work in the children's homes and spend the afternoons in sewing.

"Pastor Birker has sponsored this whole project mostly by himself, and is assisted by four eighteen-year-old boys who spend most of their time working on new buildings. There is a little hostility between the older inhabitants of the town and the incoming refugees. Not too many people in Germany want to help them. The problem is furthered because of the religious differences between the old Catholic population and the incoming Protestant refugees who are mostly Protestant. But both groups received us well and it is interesting to be go-between to a certain extent. We have already done far more work than anyone expected us to do, so our morale is high. In the late afternoons and evenings we have discussions and sports and free time.

"This past weekend we went back to Dusseldorf to attend Jacobi's annual sport fest when they have track meets for every class in the school. Inge and I visited her aunt and uncle and cousins in the nearby small city of Haan. He is an expeditor for a warehouse firm and thus had a company car to show us around the community and take us to the hospital to meet his wife who is recovering from an illness. Their house was not destroyed and he had distributed leaflets the day before Americans entered, telling the German citizens not to follow the Nazi's order to build tank traps. They are a wonderful family and treated us nicely and not in such a formal way as our Dusseldorf hosts.

"In the afternoon Inge and I took in the sports fest; but by supper the whole school celebrated in a big night club affair of a restaurant on a hill overlooking the city. There all the prizes were given out, the students in our camp from Berlin and the U. S. were introduced, and there was singing and dancing by all.

"When the teachers learned that Inge was born here in Germany, the keys of the city seemed to be opened up to us. There was one teacher who wanted to celebrate with us by filling us up with Moselle River wine. We were saved from overindulgence only by the arrival of a friend of our teacher who was also from the Mosel valley, and lucky for us the two of them drank most of the two bottles.

Sunday evening I visited the director of Jacobi Gymnasium to deliver books which were a present from teachers at George School. And again I ran into the same problem that we always run into here in Germany; mainly, the belief that a cool glass of water is not good for one. The director insisted that I needed a small glass of schnapps for my cold; consequently the students have nicknamed me Herr Schnapps. To top that evening off we took in a carnival with the students; a carnival much as they are here in the States. Monday morning found us on the train on our way back to Dorlar, and just a little tired. In the afternoon we were back on the ditches and have now completed over 100 yards a meter deep.

"The international situation worries us. I guess most Europeans are happy to hear that America is hysterical. Life seems to go steadily on with no apparent hoarding or pep rallies, such as black outs. The Germans feel that they will be next if Korea falls. They are apt to see everything as either black or white in rather a cold logic. As for the campers, we feel that if all nations join early together to halt aggression we might prevent what happened in the past war. On the other hand, there is a big question mark as to what a sharper balance of power will bring forth.

"This balance of power is a kind of poison we have inherited from Europe in spite of the fact it has always lead to war in the past. Another war would just about polish off any creative spark that is trying to show its head here in central Europe, and it is not certain that the spirit of dictatorship would be removed. At any rate we have the hope and faith that if ever there will be a real peace, it will be because of groups such as ours which have come together in small groups and who form fellowships as they offer their services to others. Granted we could not stop a war if it sprang up tomorrow.

"We think it would be good for our Senators to get together and share the experiences we have shared. In short perhaps the best thing we can do here is to offer hope and happiness to the thousands of worn and sad faces we see over here, which are not unlike the bombed factories with their empty and cool smokestacks still standing. We hope to give them something to live by and to help them come a little above an animal existence. And so much for now."

19 Children Are Affected By School Merger

was voted last Thursday when the two boards met in the township junior high school on Rogers road. "The idea had been talked about for some time," Mr. Roberts said. "Most of the smaller districts around here have merged, and we are about the last ones to take such action," he added.

Grades one through six will continue at the Tullytown school, the newly-elected president said. Formerly, Tullytown students were sent to junior and senior high school in the Pennsbury district.

Township senior high school students were brought to Bristol high school or the Falls high school, which is part of the Pennsbury system.

The new president of the Delhaas district was head of the Tullytown school board before being selected to his present office. He became president of the borough school board shortly after becoming a member several years ago.

Mr. Roberts is employed as a crane operator by the Warner Co. of Morrisville. He has lived in Tullytown for 29 years and is married to the former Evelyn Gerhart. They have two children, a girl, eight, and a young son, nine months old.

Mr. Roberts was graduated from the Tullytown grade school and was a member of the 1933 class at Bristol high school. He was born in North Wales, Pa., in 1915.

elusive material in manufacturing its hard, flexible and non-warp type of glue. All of the material is triple-tested in laboratories and is used in the publishing, paper box and luggage industries.

The glue product used in these industries cannot have an odor or taste, or the users wouldn't be able to sell their goods. Candy makers whose boxes are held together with glue wouldn't sell very much candy if the glue penetrated their product. Face powder manufacturers also would have a hard job selling their wares if their glued containers had any unpleasant odors.

The glue which the Davis Co. produces is not the material most people picture when they think of glue. The finished product comes in clean, brown slabs that resemble big chunks of caramel candy. Some of it is shipped in powdered or chipped form, according to the order specifications. The user of the glue adds water to the material to make the substance ready to do its job.

During the war the L. D. Davis Co. made glue which was used to seal the tops and bottoms of wooden canisters. Metal cans were scarce, so the government shipped much of its oil in wax-lined boxes, held together with a special Davis glue that was one of the few known substances which could resist oil for any great length of time.

The company was established in 1936 by Louis D. Davis, still the president of the firm. He began the business in Philadelphia and moved to the Edgely site in 1936.

Many of the employees have been with the firm since its early days. Nearly all of them are specialists in their field, and most of them live in the Edgely area. When the company is in full-scale operation the men work in shifts that cover 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

Currently the company is embarking on an extensive landscaping program on its 10-acre site. Plants and trees will be planted on the area fronting on route 13, which passes behind the plant.

In addition to being head of the company, Mr. Davis is an active big game hunter. Almost every year he takes off on an expedition to some part of the world. In 1948 he traveled to Alaska, and is now on a safari to Northern Rhodesia in Africa.

Radio Show Premier Reported As A Success

Bristol's own radio show, which had its premiere at the Keystone Hotel Friday evening, was declared a huge success. Capacity crowds enjoyed "Jolly Jamboree," the new show, according to the Hotel management.

Danny DiMidio and Johnny Mosco, local singers, made their radio debuts and were enthusiastically received. And Bristolites received quite a thrill having friends and neighbors interviewed on the air. Local manufacturers awarded attractive gifts to those interviewed in the audience. Radio station WTTM announced that auditions will be held at the Keystone Hotel every Wednesday evening at 10 o'clock. Any outstanding talent found will appear on Friday evenings on the Jolly Jamboree program, 11:15 p. m. to midnight.

Besides local talent there will be featured Al Lewis and his Delaware Valley Rangers, NBC Radio stars, and Lola Jay, accordionist, will appear as guest artists.

tal, Lansdale, suffering from minor cuts and bruises, and later discharged.

Fohel was a passenger in a car operated by Clinton H. Lash, Chalfont whose car was travelling on Cowpath road, and it figured in a collision with another operated by Mrs. Dolores Dziedzic, Hatfield township, travelling on Line street. The Hatfield township driver had her five-month-old daughter, Mary, on the seat beside her.

The cars came together at right angles, and the baby rolled from the seat to the floor, but was not seriously injured.

Chief D. H. Chapman, of the Montgomery Township Police, investigated. No arrests were made.

SPORTSMEN'S BRIEFS

By JOE ELBERSON

Dog training... beginning August 20th it will be legal to train your dogs afield. The training period, with certain exceptions, will run through March 31st of next year. And with the opening of the 1950 dog training season comes the realization that in a matter of some ten weeks the 1950 hunting season will be upon us.

Most of the fellows who own dogs will take it easy during the next several weeks because of the warm weather, heavy cover which makes it tough going, and the fact that dogs will not be in top hunting form after the long period of inactivity.

Meeting... the August meeting of the Edgely Rod & Gun Club will be held next Tuesday, the 22nd, at 8 P. M. in the meeting room of the Edgely Community Building. Members and friends are asked to attend.

Summer hunting casualties... so far this summer Pennsylvania's woodchuck hunting casualties are, said to say, about on a par with those over the same period in other post-war years, according to the Game Commission. Since July 1, when the 'chuck season opened, reports show that 2 groundhog hunters have been killed and 14 injured by gunfire. In addition, one non-fatal pre-season mishap charged to "pig" hunting has been recorded.

An odd feature of the 'chuck hunting casualty story so far this year lies in the fact that most of those involved were not, as is often the case, shot in mistake for groundhogs; they were injured (one was killed) when firearms discharged unexpectedly through careless or inexperienced handling. A large percentage of those "accidentally" shot were boys. An unusual feature lies in the fact that several of the injuries were to the leg.

The following typical extracts from reports made by five of this summer's injured gunners will give a clear impression as to what occurs in these cases:

"I was crawling under a barbed wire fence and the gun went off. The bullet caught me in the left leg."

"Lying on left side in a field, raised right knee. Offender mistook knee for groundhog and shot. Bullet went through below kneecap."

"I think that a shell I didn't know about was sticking in the gun. I opened the door to get out of the car and heard the shot. I didn't know it had come from my gun till I saw I had been hit."

"I laid the gun down carelessly on the ground to take a smoke, not noticing the gun was pointed toward me. My dog came up, jumped around and knocked the safe off and stepped on the trigger. The shot went into my knee."

"I was sitting along a bank, on the edge of a dense woodland, when I was shot in the back of my head. The top of my head was the only portion of my body exposed."

Trapshooting event... the new electric trap will make its debut this year at the world series of trap shooting. A battery of 36 electric traps will be used for the first time at the 51st annual Grand American Handicap at Vandellia, Ohio, beginning today through August 20th, where a field of 1,500 of the country's top trap shooters will fire at approximately 1,500,000 clay targets.

Duck Stamps... when the price of the duck stamp was increased from $1 to $2 last year there were many skeptics who felt that the sale of the Stamp would materially drop, remarks the National Wildlife Federation. This is not the case. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1949, the total sale for that year was 2,127,598 stamps. This, of course, brought in just that many dollars. The 1950 stamp sale is only slightly off. The Post Office Department reported on the first nine months of the present fiscal year, and sales up to March 31 were 1,932,365 stamps which is only 194,663 less than for the full twelve months of last year, and the total income is already above the 1949 total.

Bear damage... the Game Law authorizes the Game Commission, following investigation and certification by its officers, to "pay for any damage done to livestock or poultry or for protection to or damage done to bees by bears upon lands open to public hunting."

During the Commission's last fiscal year, June 1, 1949, through May 5, 1950, seventy-one claims totaling $1,808.52 arising from bear damage were paid. Following their destruction by bears payments were made for 17 sheep, 102 bee hives, 7 hogs and pigs, 1 calf, and 1 goat.

Unknown donor... some kind salt water angler stopped by my home Tuesday evening (in my absence) and left a beautiful 1½-pound blue fish. Since my wife did not know him I am not in a position to pay my thanks, but the gift was appreciated.

Athletics To Open Baseball School Here

The A's baseball school will come to Bristol for three days starting on Monday. Sessions will be held in the morning and afternoon on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. The school will use Memorial Park diamond.

All youngsters of this section are invited to attend the sessions. They must furnish their own gloves, uniforms, and spikes. The school will furnish the bats and balls.

For the past two years, the school here has been conducted by Ira Thomas, Charlie Gault, and Jack Coombs.

Many a big deal has been made possible through a small want ad.

SISLER CHANGE AIDED IN MAKING PHILLIES SPARK

The Philadelphia Phillies' startling surge towards the 1950 National League pennant probably could not have been brought about without the services of two outfielders who did not figure too prominently in the club's pre-season plans. The following, fourth in a series by INS, is the story of Richie Ashburn and Dick Sisler.

By John McCafferty
INS Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 18 — INS — The two most beneficial changes made by the front-running Philadelphia Phillies this year occurred in the outfield.

Switch No. 1 involved the conversion of Dick Sisler from first base to left field. The other concerned a resolution made by center fielder Richie Ashburn. He decided that in 1950 he would return to earth.

The big, jolly Sisler, son of George Sisler, a baseball immortal, tried to follow in his dad's first-baseman footsteps. But apparently he wasn't destined to be a first baseman at all.

It wasn't until Manager Eddie Sawyer of the Phillies reached that conclusion this year that the muscular Missourian came into his own.

As nearly all baseball lovers know, Dick's early days at first base with the St. Louis Cardinals were handicapped by his father's fame.

The tale never had a happy ending, however, because at first base for the Phils Dick remained an ordinary run-of-the-mill infielder.

But perhaps Sawyer should have been a writer instead of a baseball manager. For the shifting of Sisler to the outfield this season certainly has lent a happy turn to the unfinished Sisler story.

In his new position Dick has shed the pressure which plagued him at first base. As graceful as many veteran outfielders, Sisler has improved greatly afield and at bat. And the Phillies have used the change to good advantage.

The Ashburn story is a rather unusual one, too, but it also has a blissful ending. It isn't every rookie-of-the-year who, having flopped on his face in his sophomore season, is honest enough to blame the second-year slump on a "swelled head."

But that's how the plot goes in the case of the sandy-haired Richie Ashburn.

Gem of the freshman crop in 1948, the Phils' center fielder plunked far below par last year, and described it this way:

"I had a swelled head. I laughed at the advice I got from veterans, thought the big leagues were a snap—and got the best lesson a fellow can ever get."

Richie then avowed to "listen and learn" this year in an effort to return to his 1948 form. And judging from the way the nimble-footed Nebraskan has been performing for the Sawermen this year, Ashburn undoubtedly has gained by his change in attitude. So has the whole team.

ROHM & HAAS WINS OVER HUNTER-WILSON

The Rohm & Haas ten took first place in Bristol Industrial League last evening with a close 8-7 victory over the Hunter-Wilson team on the Rohm & Haas diamond.

The chemical mixers won the game with a run in their last turn at bat. In the top half of the frame, the distillery workers had deadlocked the count by denting the plate.

Hunter-Wilson scored its tally on a walk to Tom Ruggieri, a fly out to center by Mama, an error on Ennis' grounder and a long fly to left by Gotwald.

The deciding tally was produced when Ed Hunter opened with his second hit of the fracas. He went to second on Tranter's sacrifice, advanced to third on Joe Steinbrum's hit through the infield and kept on to the plate on an overthrow at third.

"Spike" Naylor, the losing pitcher, allowed 10 hits and walked seven batters. Trimble, Rohm & Haas twirler, gave up eight hits and issued five passes.

FIFTH WARD WINS AFTER RALLY IN SIXTH FRAME

Fifth Ward A. C. rallied in the sixth to score eight times and beat out the Auto Boys contingent, 8-5 last evening, in a Bristol Softball League game on Memorial field. The victory assured the Warders of seventh spot in the circuit.

Fifth Ward was losing, 5-0, and were held to but one hit when Larry Harrison "blew up" and before the frame was over Dick VanAken and Bill Lewis had taken up the mound duty.

One was away when "Bumps" Constantino started the fireworks with a single to the shortfield. Paul Paolillo got on via an error. Then came successive doubles by John Cordisco and Joe Pica. Frank Russo connected for a triple and Danny Pico hit safely. The latter hit spelled exit for Harrison and VanAken came to the mound.

VanAken got Liberator on a fly to the shortfield. But both Angelo Cordisco and Carnvale got passes after Smithers Cordisco singled. Up for the second time, Constantino again hit safely. At this point, Bill Lewis relieved VanAken. Paolillo filled out to end the uprising.

Peter Volpe started on the hill for Fifth Ward. He was replaced by Paolillo in the second. The latter was the winning hurler. In the fifth, Charlie Kohler tagged Paolillo for a home run.
